

New York

I am at a narrow street running from southwest to northeast , flanked by modern buildings on both sides.

On the left, a storefront displays a green awning with the text 'Pine Cleaners & Tailors'  prominently featured, indicating services such as same-day cleaning and tailoring, and it also announces a 'Grand Opening'.

On the right, another building features large glass windows, providing a view into the interior where people can be seen.

In front of me is 'Dig', a fast-food establishment, and the building at '80 Pine Street'.

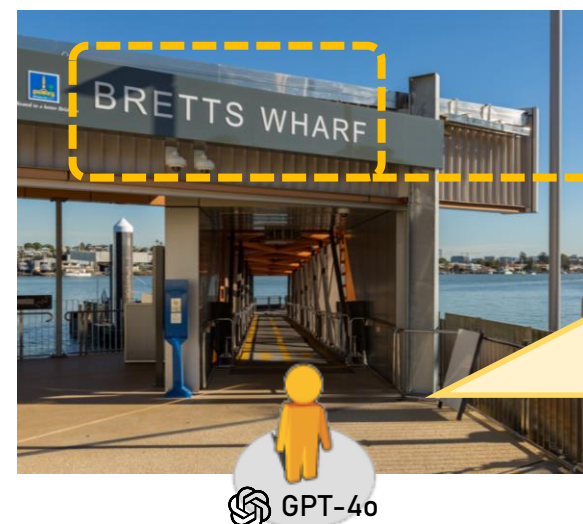

Behind me, there are several shops including 'AA Nails Spa'.

I am on a narrow street running from west to east , flanked by buildings on both sides.

To the southwest, a brick building features a sign that reads '華埠服务社', indicating a community service center  with a classic architectural style and large windows.

On the opposite side, to the northwest, there are several businesses, including '山东锅贴' and 'EDUPLING', as well as 'Fried Dumpling' and 'Hop Kee', both of which are restaurants.

I am at Bretts Wharf ferry terminal, characterized by a modern entrance with a prominent sign displaying 'BRETT'S WHARF'.

The terminal features a wide ramp leading down to the water, with railings on either side. To the left, there is a blue information kiosk, and beyond the terminal, the river is visible with various boats docked along the shore.

I'm at the corner, in front of a restaurant named 'Gracefully.' The building features large glass windows and a maroon awning with the restaurant's name prominently displayed. There are benches along the sidewalk, and a bus stop sign is visible nearby. The area appears to be a mix of residential and commercial, with architecture and some greenery.
